GILLETT GOES THROUGH.

Sait Lake Route Official En Route to Coast From East.

E. W. Gillett, general freight and passenger agent for the Salt Lake Route, arrived in this city yesterday morning, and before leaving for Los Angeles spoke chiefly of the situation between the Southern Pacific and Salt Lake Route as regards interchange of freight. Mr. Gillett affirmed that as far the knew there was no chapter in as he knew there was no change in relations between the two roads.

Rallroad Notes.

Vice President W. H. Bancroft of the Oregon Short Line is back in the city. Judge J. H. Carroll, general solicitor for the Burlington route, is in the city in his private car.

George W. Boyd, general agent of the Pennsylvania system, with headquarters in Philadelphia, is here in his private car. He is on his way back east after a trip through the Yeilowstone park.

A party of forty eastern tourists eaves today for Yellowstone park by the Oregon Short Line. Travel to the park has been heavier this summe than ever before, and returning parties report a delightfully cool summer there.

The Oregon Short Line installs a new leeping car service between Boise and vortland today. This is a new sleeping ar run and is made because of the eavy travel over that road to and from the Lewis and Clark exposition at Port-land. This traffic has grown steadily from the beginning of the summer and has now reached such proportions that the road is running much extra equip-ment in addition to these sleepers, which will run on trains Nos. 5 and 6.

Charles C. Richards, his voice vibrant with the emotions of a friendship of over more than three decades, referred to the fact that the first occasion of his association with Thomas D. Dee was in the establishment and maintenance of a free public library in Ogden thirty-five years ago. The speaker told then of the service of Mr. Dee as supermetendent of the Mound Fort Sunday solishop's counsellor for twelve years, his work in managing municipal affairs, as bishop's counsellor for twelve years, his work in managing municipal affairs, as bishop's counsellor for twelve years, his work in managing municipal affairs, as work in the first occasion of the service of the late Thomas D. "A casual meeting with Judge Dee." said he, "gave no idea of his real worth, but to know him well was to know that he was one of the noblest men of God." Mr. Richards justified his right to speak as an intimate friend by stating that in thirty years of close association he had never asked Judge Dee to do anything that he knew had not been granted, nor had the dead man ever made a request of him that he did not grant. that he knew had not been granted, nor had the dead man ever made a request of him that he did not grant.

Dr. E. M. Conroy, speaking from the standpoint of personal friendship, and as a fellow member of the board of, education with Judge Dee, made a short address. He had known him but a comparatively short time, he said, but in that time had come to respect and honor him. He related instances showing the fidelity to the public trust imposed in Judge Dee, and of his long, patient, persistent and successful work for the public schools.

"In Memoriam," an adaptation of Tennyson's words sung to music composed eleven years ago by Squire Coop for the funeral services of Reese Dee, son of Judge Dee, was impressively sung by Mrs. Allison, Miss Flowers, Fred Tout and Chariton Ferrin.

Governor John C. Cutier spoke briefly, saying that he wished in a public manner to testify that the state, in the death of Judge Dee, had lost a splendid, consclentious and successful ruble servant, and that he had personally realized a great loss in the death of a true man and friend. Miss Mitchell rendered a solo, "Some Time We'll Understand."

President Joseph F. Smith spoke of Thomas D. Dee as a church man, and told of the rewards assured to those who, like him, had fought the good fight. "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling" was the concluding musical number, sung by Miss Mitchell and Mr. Ferrin, Bishop George Romey of Salt Lake offered The pallbearers were eight in number.

The board also raised the salary of the marshal to $900 per year. Hereafter that officer will be required to more rigidly enforce the town ordinances than has been done in the past.

One of the noticeable results of this change of policy is the closing of the saloons on Sunday. This is the first time in the history of the town that the Sunday closing law has been enforced.

Some of the knockers have started a movement to distinctorporate the town, and are circulating a petition to that end. So far the petition has had few signers, and the probability is that the movement will come to naught. The store where men know they can get the Snappy Styles in Summer Wear.
